Sport in Brazil

- 1 Which sports do you think are popular in Brazil?
- 2 What sport are the boys playing? How is it different from volleyball? Read and check your ideas.

FOOTVOLLEY

Footvolley is a mixture of the two most popular sports in Brazil – football and volleyball.

Footvolley is the same as beach volleyball with a few BIG differences:

- players can hit the ball with any part of the body except their hands
- the ball is a football
- the teams are smaller (there are only two players in each team).

Footvolley started in Brazil in 1965. Football clubs all over the country stopped their players playing football in summer so that they didn't get hurt. However, the players didn't want to stop playing, so they played on volleyball courts instead of on football pitches. Without meaning to, these players invented a new sport.

HOW TO PLAY

The aim of the game is to get the ball over the net and to touch the sand on the other team's side. It mustn't touch the sand on your side of the court.

Two players from each team stand either side of the net. The first team starts the game by kicking the ball over the net.

One of the players on the other side of the net must stop the ball using their head, feet, legs or body (but not their hands). This is the first touch. They pass the ball to the other person on their team, who must hit the ball back over the net. This is the second touch. Each team can touch the ball three times before they must hit the ball over the net.

Footvolley is now becoming a popular sport all around the world and is very popular with Brazilian footballers, especially in the summer.
