Pancake Day

1 Look at the picture and answer.

Do you ever make pancakes? How do you make them?

2 Read the webpage and write Yes or No.

- 1 Many people in Britain eat pancakes on Shrove Tuesday. _____
- 2 Pancake Day is on the same day every year. _____
- 3 British pancakes don't have eggs in them. _____
- 4 People toss pancakes so they cook well. _____
- 5 There are bicycle races in Britain on Pancake Day. _____

In Britain, Shrove Tuesday is the day when nearly everyone makes and eats pancakes. Why is Pancake Day on Shrove Tuesday?

Shrove Tuesday is the last day before Lent (the forty days when Christians stop eating rich food before Easter). In the past, on Shrove Tuesday, people used up all the rich foods in their kitchens. They made pancakes on this day because they contain butter, sugar and eggs, which they couldn't eat during Lent.

Pancake Day (Shrove Tuesday)

Pancake Day is always on a Tuesday in February or March. It is exactly 47 days before Easter Sunday. Easter takes place on a different date each year because it depends on the moon.

English pancakes are round and thin and we fry them in a pan. They're not as thin as French crepes, and they're much bigger and thinner than American style pancakes.

Look at the picture at the top of the page. In it you can see a woman tossing a pancake. To toss a pancake, you have to throw it up, make it flip and catch it in the pan. You have to toss a pancake so that it cooks on both sides.

Pancake races are another tradition on Pancake Day in Britain. People run races holding a pancake in a pan. As they run, they have to toss the pancake. In some pancake races people dress up in fancy dress costumes.

3 Design a webpage about a day in your country when you eat special food.
