France

Every year, the people in the town of Bessières in France make a giant omelette. More than 15,000 eggs were used to make the omelette last year and it was made by approximately 50 people. The omelette was made from eggs, mushrooms, oil and onions, and it was fried in a giant saucepan. Last year, it was eaten by approximately 10,000 visitors!

England

In Olney in England, there has been a pancake race every year since 1445! Only women can take part in the race. There is also a race for children, but this competition wasn't started until 1950. The competitors hold frying pans with pancakes and run as fast as they can. Last year, the race was run in the snow!

Italy

At a food festival, would you rather eat your food or throw it? In Ivrea in Italy, a festival called the Battle of the Oranges is held every February. The people in the town make nine teams.
